

THE GIRL WHO CHRISTENED THE BIG NEW YORK.

Miss Helen Cliford Page, One of Yesterday's Brides.

At the sanctuary in St. Bartholomew's Church, yesterday afternoon, Miss Helen Page, only daughter of J. Seaver Page, became the bride of Arthur Wheeler Francis. Rev. David H. Greer, D. D., rector of the church, performed the ceremony at 3:30 o'clock. He was assisted by the Rev. Lewis Francis, of Brooklyn, father of the bridegroom, and the Rev. Arthur N. Taft.

The bride was given away by her father. She was attended by Miss Leonie de Bary. The bridesmaids were the Misses Louise Van Ingen, Edith Hyde, of Plainfield, N. J., May Chittenden, of Brooklyn, Sarah Devoe, Helen Miller and Elizabeth R. Francis.

Lewis W. Francis acted as best man for his brother. The ushers were the Messrs. Howard Wilson, Franklin A. Plummer, J. F. Louis Slade, A. Rene Monen, Theodore M. Taft, Howard C. Smith, Lloyd M. Van Deventer, Dr. Edwin Holmes, Dr. Vanderpoel Adriaens and Rev. Carroll Perry.

The bride's father gave a reception for his daughter after the church ceremony at the home of her maternal aunt, Mrs. Richard Mott Lumber, No. 121 Madison avenue. Among those who attended were Mayor and Mrs. William L. Strong, Mr. and Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, Mrs. L. N. Phelps, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Francis, Mr. and Mrs. D. Willis James, Mr. and Mrs. George Gould, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Julliard, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph de Bary, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Page.

Miss Page is one of New York's most beautiful young society women. She is a successful sportswoman, having proved her marksmanship in the Adirondacks this autumn by shooting a deer. When but sixteen years old Miss Page had the honor of dedicating the American Line steamship New York.

DIDN'T KNOW TENANTS.

But Rich Mrs. Poundt Evaded Service When Summoned Because of Their Character.

A florid, blond, fleshy woman, about fifty years old, named in the warrant for her arrest as Mrs. Annie Poundt, alias Mrs. Lizzie Miller, alias Mrs. Sophia B. Murtha, appeared in the new West Fifty-fourth street police court yesterday morning to answer the charge of renting the house owned by her at No. 152 West Fifty-fourth street for disorderly purposes.

Mrs. Poundt, or Mrs. Miller, as the police say she is known at her home, lives at No. 33 West Washington square. The police have had their eyes on No. 152 West Fifty-fourth street for some weeks. The title to it and the taxes paid are in the name of Sophia B. Murtha. Many ineffectual attempts were made by Captain Schmittberger to serve summons upon Mrs. Poundt, but these were evaded, and Magistrate Knudlich issued a warrant for her arrest. This was served by a ruse on the part of the detectives. She was admitted to $200 bail. Furnished by Eleanor McCarton, of No. 78 East One Hundred and Twenty-seventh street.

When the case was called yesterday morning it was continued at the request of the police until Saturday morning. Mrs. Poundt claims that she was ignorant of the immoral character of her tenants, but

PRAYING BROUGHT O'BRIEN TO JAIL.

He Was on His Knees in the Decorous Store of His Father.

ONCE HE WAS A DRUNKARD

Rejecting the Good Counsel of His Parent He Ran the Killing Pace.

AT MIDDLE AGE HE CHANGES.

Now in Squalor He Prays and Freaches Until His Father, His Patience Exhausted, Had to Cause His Arrest.

William G. O'Brien, who was arrested at the request of his father for examination as to his sanity, is a strange character. He ran through the years of his early maturity at the pace that soon catches up with death. He drank himself into disreputability. He was sent to Belgium for reformation. He returned worse. He was sent to California for regeneration. He returned apparently incorrigible. Now, at the approach to the broad line that marks the fiftieth year of man he has become a religious zealot, probably a fanatic. He devotes himself to preaching, to praying and to singing.

Notwithstanding the commendable change from dissipation to religion, O'Brien has not found the cleanliness that is akin to godliness. Unkempt he visited the missions, and in ragged garments and with wild flying locks he went to the store of his father and prayed for him and for the salesmen and the clerks. These visits to the store and also to his home provoked the parent to apply for the arrest of his son.

The elder O'Brien, William K., has conducted for fifty years a frame and picture store at No. 83 Third avenue. Among his patrons are the Stuyvesants, the Rutherfords, the Websters and the Exarces. His business is conducted with the decorum worthy of his history. The frequent visits of his wild son, who has been in an asylum for the last thirty years, but declared his opinion that the real cause of the younger man's breakdown had been his drunkenness and other dissipation.

A Word About Men's Hats.

The philosophy of an increasing business is—gaining popularity. The more people you have convinced that your goods are better and your prices lower than any one else's, the more trade you get.

Applied to our Hat business it means that many more gentlemen must think this store the best of all to buy hats at, since we are selling many more than any other single store in New York has ever sold before.

WE CLAIM THAT OUR DERBY AND FEDORA HATS AT 2.25 are as good as you pay elsewhere $3.50 for.
WE CLAIM THAT OUR DERBY AND FEDORA HATS AT 1.75 are as good as you pay elsewhere $3 for.
WE CLAIM THAT THE BOYS' DERBY AND ALPINE HATS WE SELL FOR 1.25 are not equalled anywhere for less than $1.50.

And it is reasonable to suppose that we could dispose of thousands and thousands of cases were they not UNSURPASSED VALUES FOR THE PRICE?

William G. O'Brien Prayed Incessantly for His Father, Who Caused His Arrest.

On Monday evening, when Patrolman Tibbitt sought the younger O'Brien, he found him at Jerry McAuley's Mission. The congregation was singing a hymn as the policeman entered. When the hymn was ended the policeman called O'Brien aside and told him he had a warrant for his arrest. At first O'Brien declined to go, but finally went with the policeman.

Yesterday, in Essex Market Court, the father, who had made the complaint, did not appear. Magistrate Cornell sent for him. The venerable shopkeeper, immaculate in dress, serene in manner and precise in deportment, was in strong contrast to the unkempt man who had been praying for him. The father told Magistrate Cornell that he believed his son's reason was gone, and asked that he be committed to some institution. He said that his son may have inherited his mental infirmity from his mother, who has been in an asylum for the last thirty years, but declared his opinion that the real cause of the younger man's breakdown had been his drunkenness and other dissipation.

Magistrate Cornell committed the prisoner to Bellevue Hospital for examination as to his sanity.

The son had been living at No. 544 Tenth avenue. With him was a woman whom he called his wife. He says that he met her in Union square in 1898. She was crying bitterly. She told him that she had been employed as a chambermaid by Susan B. Anthony and was a stranger in New York. This woman insisted yesterday that O'Brien is entirely sane.

"My marriage," said the younger O'Brien through the bars of his cell, "set my father against me—my marriage and the fact that I have thrown myself upon the mercy of God and been received as one of his children. I admit that drink was once my god; that the pleasures of this world seemed more precious to me than fine gold; that I was on the very verge of the pit."

Saved by Prayer.

"But I was saved in time, blessed be God! It was not done all at once. I prayed myself from twenty whiskeys a day to ten, then from ten to none, until I had put whiskey forever out of my life. Other temptations then reached out to poison my soul. For a long time I fought, I struggled against the domination of beer. It was a hard struggle, but after months and months of earnest prayer I succeeded in getting down to one beer a day, praise God! and now I am emancipated forever from that cursed thralldom. My only pleasure on earth is to praise the Lord in his temple and to help others to come to Him."

"Of course, seeing as plainly as I do the vital necessity of conversion, I have been anxious to bring my father into the way of life, and from time to time I have sought to draw his heart aside from the sordid things of earth. To this end I have gone to his place of business and wrestled with him in prayer, but he has thus far hardened his heart against me. I shall, however, continue to pray for him until the end. I am a high Presbyterian and my father is a Roman Catholic, but that Conserved Fruits. WE buy the finest conserved fruits that France furnishes—and France leads the world. We pay the highest prices, too.

And you'll thank us for it. Conserved fruit is a luxury—a cent's worth of false economy makes that luxury a farce. Our candy chief goes to France for it—to Apt, a city in the southern part. This year's pack is particularly fine, and has a larger variety of fruit than ever.

A Thanksgiving delicacy. FIVE POUND BOXES, $1.50. ONE POUND OF THE FRUIT, 35c. The 5-lb boxes sold in Basement and on Main-Aisle. The smaller quantities in the Basement candy store only.

Artificial Flowers. CUNNING are the hands of the French artists, who can make flowers so like the real that you will stoop to smell them. And what life and beauty these mimic flowers add to the house that is adorned by them!

Palms, ferns, roses of all sorts, carnations, lilies, tulips, snowballs, hydrangeas, etc. And baskets, jardiniere, and moss to complete the illusion.

Dinner China and Glass

THE usual attractions here in dinner-sets have several special additions to-day. Some beautiful sets in Haviland china and fine English and American porcelain are marked at prices that will draw all lovers of china-beauty to the display on the basement floor.

ENGLISH PORCELAIN.—Two under-glaze decorations:—
100-piece sets at $5.65, that were $7.
112-piece sets at $6.50, that were $8.
In Flow Blue under-glaze decorations:—
115-piece sets at $7, that were $10.
Two Enamelled Flower and Gold decorations:—
112-piece sets at $12, that were $16.
AMERICAN PORCELAIN.—Six Flower and Gold decorations:—
113-piece sets at $13, that should be $20.
THEODORE HAVILAND'S CHINA.—Flower and Gold decorations:—
Five 113-piece sets at $22.50, that were $30.

To complete the beauty of the dinner-table, these water-sets of the finest Belgian glass, are added, at about two-thirds regular prices:

Eight-piece set, four-pint jug, 6 tumblers, and 16-inch table mirror, plain glass, now $5, from $7.25.
The same, in handsome cut glass, with carafe instead of jug, now $7, from $9.75.
Same set, in fleur-de-lis engraved glass, now $4.50, from $6.

Girls' Jackets and Dresses

"SAMPLE LINES" are the best of all bargains, because, in the first place, a maker naturally does his very best on his samples; and then nobody loses when they are sold at half price.

Two royal sample lines come here for sale to-day. First, a line of girls' high-grade jackets, in fine kerseys, broadcloths, coverts, mixed chevots, and whippers, in various colors and black; some are plain fly-fronts, beautifully braided and fur trimmed; nearly all lined with very handsome fancy silks and satins, and finely tailored.

These are jackets that sell regularly at $12 to $36. Our prices are Just Half—$6 to $18.

In the lot are a number of coats of 32, 34 and 36 bust, that will fit women of small figures.

GIRLS' DRESSES. An artist in girls' dresses also turns over to us his sample line, at half the regular prices, and they go to you on the same basis.

A number of them are beautiful little party dresses, in light colored silks and cashmeres, some low neck and short sleeves, others high neck; beautifully trimmed with laces, chiffon and ribbons. Others are in dark cashmeres, handsome wool plaids and mixtures. Only one dress of a kind. Prices to-day are $6 to $20; and each one is worth just double.

Second floor.

Dinner Favors. QUAIN and amusing are the odd shapes used for garnishing the table. Gilt, silver, and colors, in endless variety of shapes. Here are some of them:—

Ham frills and holders, chop holders, ham and roast beef decorations, lace mats, soufflé cups, ice cups, etc.

The Candy Store, Basement.

Men's Furnishings. FOUR items that will make you feel like giving thanks. Some of these are worth double our prices; some only two-thirds more.

Men's collars, newest styles, at 10c. Men's fancy shirts, best goods, at 50c. Men's fancy Domet flannel night-shirts, at 50c.

Men's scarfs, every shape, at 35c., or 3 for $1.

Ninth street and Broadway.

Women's Hats. ONLY two hundred of them; black velvet, untrimmed, such as sell regularly at $1.75 and $2; ready for to-day's selling at

$1.35 each

Nine different shapes,—pokes, short-back sailors, flaring brims, tilted crowns, and other dress shapes.

Better come early.

Second floor.

Dress Garnitures. Over four hundred handsome beaded dress garnitures, in various shapes, all this season's styles, are here to sell at half prices and less. All are now marked at three prices:—

35c., 50c. and 75c. Centre aisle, Broadway.

makes no difference. Nothing can withstand the force of earnest prayer. I shall yet win him from his errors; he will rise up and bless me for it."

Mr. O'Brien, Sr., however, took a very different view of his son's sudden piety. He has been a ne'er-do-well ever since his childhood days. Everything was done to give him a fair way in life, but he preferred the vicious to the good.

URGED SAILORS TO DRINK.

Ex-Ambassador Bayard Hopes the Wilmington's Punch Bowl Will Be Filled and Emptied Many Times.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 23.—In the presence of two thousand five hundred persons, Commander C. C. Todd, this afternoon accepted on behalf of the United States Navy and the officers and crew of the gunboat Wilmington, named in honor of this city, a handsome solid silver punch bowl and two side bowls for service aboard the good ship. The presentation of the gift was made in the Grand Opera House.

During the morning, Commander Todd accepted on behalf of the Navy Department, the officers and crew of his ship, a Bible, purchased by 2,301 school children of the city for service aboard the boat. The presentation of the punch bowl was made by Thomas F. Bayard, former Ambassador to England. In closing his address Mr. Bayard expressed the hope that the officers and crew of the gunboat would have occasion to fill up and drink from the punch bowl many times, and that when they did so they would think of the people of Wilmington, whose hearts and good wishes will be with them though they be many thousands miles away.

Commander Todd replied to Mr. Bayard in a neat speech. He called attention to the size of our navy, and said it is inadequate for the proper defense of the honor and dignity of the country.

A parade of militia, Delaware College Cadets and marines preceded and followed the presentation. The address of welcome was made by Mayor McLean. United States Senator Gray and ex-Senator Anthony Higgins also spoke. To-night the officers of the gunboat were given a private banquet. The boat will remain here until Friday or Saturday, and on Thanksgiving the entire crew of the gunboat and fifty men will be given a free turkey dinner.

It's hard to keep up with the new things in leather. Delightful new contrivances and conveniences appear almost daily. Here, for example, is a charming little opera bag, lined with white silk, holding opera glasses, vinaigrettes, purse, card-case, and little mirror for a last pink; and combination writing and sewing case for travelers, with all the essentials, for both uses.

As for pocket-books—they're simply endless.

Women's Pocketbooks, a fine line at 75c. Combination Pocketbooks, in levant, 45c. alligator, $1.

Combination books, silver-mounted, alligator or levant, $1.25 and $1.50. Seal and Alligator Purses, 45c. Change Purses, imported, in levant and alligator, 40c.

Silver-gilt-mounted Pocketbooks, in horn, alligator or "elephant skin," $1.00 to $1.75. Seal Chatelaine Bags, 95c.

Boston Shopping Bags, 50c. to $1. Gate-top Silk Bags, $1.25 to $1.50.

Broadway.

Men's Shoes. MEN critical or economical, or both, will find this shoe news important enough to read with care. It concerns 1,558 pairs of splendid new shoes, made from solid, high-grade leathers, both soles and uppers, by the best shoe processes.

The cheapness needs explanation. They were made between seasons. The shop must shut down or work cheaply. The retail price pays no profit and each buyer gains more than a dollar a pair by accident of circumstances. The leathers are Russet Calif. Enamelled Grain. Black Box Calif. Patent Leather.

The style is University Model, Scotch foxed, and the price is

$2.90 a pair

Dozens of stores in this city get $5 for shoes that are not superior to these at any point.

Fourth avenue.

Men's "BARGAIN" is unpleasantly apt to mean something of poorer quality than usual.

We like bargains that are of better quality than usual. Like this:—

A special lot of very handsomely made overcoats, of fine imported, unfaded black worsteds, medium short, full back, with 4-inch lap seams, lined throughout with pure silk; coats that you regularly pay $25 for.

Here $20 each.

Second Floor.

Boys' Clothing. TWO special lots of boys' cheviot suits are ready this morning. "Special" means in this case one-third below regular value.

And one other "special" thing—they're made with double seat and knees, and silk-sewed.

Double-breasted jacket and short trousers, for boys of 8 to 16 years, in all-wool fancy chevots.

Usual $5.50 grade, here $4

Usual $6 grade, here $4.50.
